LOCAL AND PERSONAL

P. T. A. SILVER TEA.

The Parent-Teacher Association met in the school auditorium Monday afternoon, March 14th.

The program was unusually good and each number was thoroughly enjoyed. It was as follows:

Violin Solo, "First Smile" by Benoni Lagye, Miss Bernice Speece accompanied by Mrs. O. A. Fly.

Group of songs: "L'Amour, Toujours, L'Amour", "Cuban Love Song" and "Home", Mr. Thomas Taylor accompanied by Mrs. George Windrow.

Some interesting details of the County Meet by Mr. Broxton, who also made an address on "Child Welfare".

Two Piano Solos, "Etude 3" and "Cinderella", Miss Adele Scott.

An announcement was made of the Fifth District Conference to be held in Crystal City, April 4th to 6th. Mesdames O. A. Fly, R. W. Speece and Andrew Bless were appointed delegates, others to be named later.

A nominating committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. J. R. Chaney, Mrs. O. H. Miller, Mrs. H. E. Haas, Mrs. Horace Bradley, Mrs. Ed. Connevey and Mrs. R. J. Noonan.

The book was won this month by the eighth grade.

Mrs. Garwood, now of Corpus Christi, who is a charter member of our P. T. A., and who was president in 1909-1910, gave an interesting talk.

This being annual Silver Tea, the hostesses decorated the stage very attractively. Tall baskets of calla lilies and fern and bowls of the club flower, pansies, were placed about the stage; the purple of the pansies and the gold of a big bowl of Marechal Niel roses on the piano carried out the Club colors.

At one side of the stage was a small flower laden table holding a silver tray for the offering. Several dollars were donated. In the center of the stage was a large lace covered table. On the table was the silver tea service, tall delicately tinted purple candles in silver candlesticks, two large gold cakes iced to match the candles and decorated in tiny gold birthday candles. Scattered over the table were pansies and sprays of redbud. Each guest was served a large square of cake, hot tea, and gold and purple mints. Favors were sprays of the pansies tied with gold ribbon.

Mrs. L. E. Heath and Mrs. Alfred Schwaers were joint chairmen of the hostess committee; other members of the committee were Mesdames Jack Lacy, Hy. Merriman, L. A. Meckler, Geo. Leinweber, C. M. Merritt, H. J. Meyer, Harry Kollman, L. E. Kollman, Jr., Will Muenink, V. P. King, H. F. King, N. C. Johnson and W. N. Saathoff.

In spite of the exceedingly cold weather of last Friday and Saturday the events of the County Interscholastic League Meet were run off on schedule time at the local high school. Hondo won the Meet by a wide margin of points, followed by Yancey for second place. Shook school won the rural school division. The results of the events, both literary and track, are announced by Prof. J. G. Barry elsewhere in this issue.

Managing Editor Fletcher Davis is on the sick list as we go to press and is confined to his bed with the flu. So if things don't exactly please you in this issue at least sympathize with the poor Editor, who, for the first time in her year and a half of editorship, has had the sole responsibility of getting out the paper on time in addition to keeping it up to its good standard.

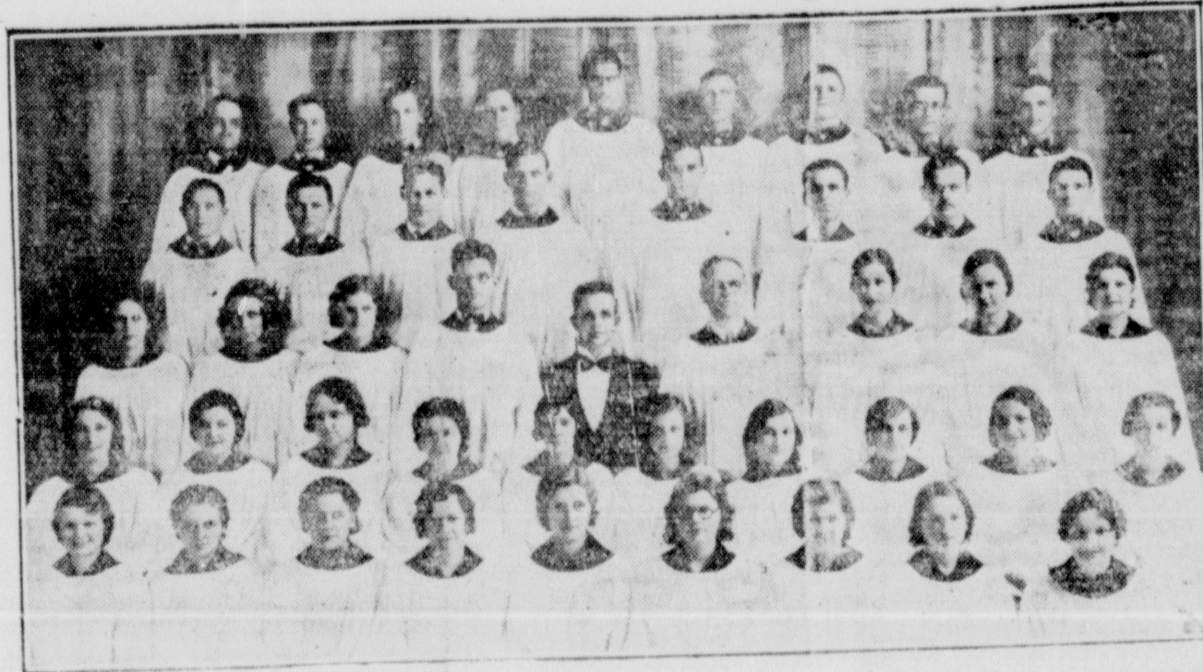

Friends of Mrs. Fritz Bohlen will regret to hear that she has been very ill for the past few days. As we go to press, however, she is reported to be resting better. Mrs. Bohlen suffered injuries in an automobile accident over a month ago and has been confined to her bed ever since.

Dr. B. H. Carlton and Mr. C. M. Flory attended the presentation of the "Wonder Bar", musical comedy starring Al Jolson, at the Municipal Auditorium in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Why not finish the number in these two groups by becoming regular in attendance at church services. This is an opportune time to begin, why not start Sunday? Help to overflow the churches of our little city this Easter season. Life will mean more to you, you will mean more to life, to your fellow-man, to your community and to the Lord Jesus Christ who died that you might have this opportunity. One and all shall we not acknowledge Him and be loyal to the Church He established, to proclaim His glorious gospel?

You will find a welcome at any and all the Churches of the town. We welcome you to the Methodist worship with us Sunday.

MARRIED.

Last Saturday forenoon a quiet, but pretty church wedding took place in Bethlehem Lutheran church of Quilhi, the contracting parties being Mr. George W. Reitzer, the groom, of Quilhi and Miss Anna May Filleman, the bride, of New Fountain.

Near relatives of both the groom and bride were present to witness the solemn and interesting service. After the church service the bridal couple repaired to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Reitzer, where a wedding dinner was enjoyed by all present.

Later in the day the young couple drove to San Antonio to visit with relatives for a few days. Upon their return they will make their home with the groom's parents, two miles east of Quilhi. The young couple is well and favorably known in and about the Quilhi community, who all wish them Godspeed, health and happiness on their mutual path through life.

DEVINE NEWSLETS

From The LaCoste Ledger.

MRS. PHILOMENA GROSS. (nee Burger).

A shadow of sorrow was thrown over our city when the sad news of the death of Mrs. Philomena Gross was received Wednesday, March 2nd, 1932.

Mrs. Gross was born at the Burger Settlement, Medina County, on May 1st, 1853, and had attained the age of 78 years, 10 months and one day at the time of her sudden death at 5:30 P. M., March 2, following an illness of about three weeks' duration. She was well fortified with the last Sacraments of the Catholic Church.

She was happily married to Mr. Romanus Gross at Castroville on November 9th, 1875. On January 28th, 1883, they moved to Bexar County, about 2 miles east of LaCoste where they resided until in November, 1911, when they moved to LaCoste, Medina County, where they lived ever since.

The deceased leaves surviving, her husband, Romanus Gross, five children: Miss Anna Gross and Louis Gross of LaCoste, and Joseph, Henry and John Gross of D'Hanis; two grandchildren, Miss Margaret and Louis Gross, Jr., of LaCoste, besides a large number of other near and dear relatives to mourn her passing. One sister, Miss Angelina Burger, preceded her to the grave on July 3rd, 1931.

Her remains rested at the residence until 9:30 A. M. Friday, March 4th, 1932, where hundreds of relatives and friends called for a last view of their departed friend and neighbor. After services at the residence the remains were carried to St. Mary's Church where a Requiem Mass was offered by Rev. Jos. Schweller, after which she was tenderly laid to rest in St. Mary's Cemetery, Rev. Father Schweller performing the last sad rites of the church of which the departed had been a life-long member. Interment was under the direction of the Horgor Undertaking Co. of Hondo.

The largest cortege ever witnessed here followed the remains to their last resting place, showing the high esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. St. Ann's Society, of which she was a member attended the funeral in a body.

Pall-bearers were: Messrs. Jos. R. Kauffman, Henry Kauffman, Wm. Burger, Anton Burger John Burger and Wm. Lamont, all nephews of the deceased.

We extend our deepest sympathies to the grief-stricken husband and children in this their great hour of sorrow.

May she rest in peace.

IRRIGATED FARMS RECEIVER NAMED BY FEDERAL JUDGE.

Federal Judge DuVal West Friday officially appointed a receiver, A. H. Dillon, for the San Antonio Suburban Irrigated Farms, a Medina Dam project of which J. E. Jarratt is president.

Following a written petition for a receiver, filed by the Wheeler Kelly Haggy Trust Company of Wichita, Kansas, and a short oral hearing, the court appointed Dillon receiver and fixed his bond at $25,000.

According to the petition, the Kansas company and the J. E. Jarratt company held notes on a $1,500,000 bond issue which was authorized in October, 1928. The company claimed that the irrigation project has defaulted approximately $146,250 in interest coupons and $150,000 in bonds, now due.

The project is located in Bexar, Medina and Atascosa Counties, and covers 34,194.33 acres.—San Antonio Light.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS? Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

BE CHEERFUL!

From the Owl.
Do the students of our High School make a practice of being cheerful? Very few of them have tried, I will venture to say.

Already one can see disgusted, unhappy faces and tired looks along every row of desks in the study hall. Some cast disdainful glances at the growing number of books in their desks, while others hang their heads and yearn for the next vacation to be here. Perhaps many of us have forgotten the little saying:

"Sad faces lengthen the dreary way—
One sunny smile makes a dozen gay."

Let's drop our sad looks and try being cheerful. We will soon see how different things will be. Try a smile once in a while; try cheering a friend in distress and see how much better you will feel. Open a tattered text book and forget that someone told you it was "dry stuff" or that the assignment was hard. Think of your glowing dreams of the future, of your ambitions—and fight on, but don't forget to smile.

Greet the teachers and your friends with a cheerful countenance each morning, then gather up all of your caged up energy with the intention of making each day a perfect success. I hope that the students may say at the close of each day that they have climbed one more rung on the ladder of education. So let's buckle down to real work and cram each day with all of the cheerfulness and good-fellowship that we can.

SELLING THE GOODS.

A president of a tire manufacturing company had a theory as to why more tires were not being sold. To test his new theory he had a car equipped with the most ragged-looking tires he could find. One might expect from the appearance of them that they would blow out at any moment. Then he climbed into the car and sallied forth on a tour of investigation or experiment.

At station after station he drove in and asked the dealer to test the air pressure of the old tires or do something or other to them. The station attendants did as he asked and then waved him a gracious goodbye. They were all dealing in tires; but at only one place out of the forty that he visited did the dealer say anything about new tires.

Pithy Quotations from Public Addresses of
MELVIN A. TRAYLOR
President, First National Bank, Chicago

"It is time some leadership and some party called our attention to the fact there is no magic cure for the ills and evils of human folly. We trod the primrose path of extravagance, of thoughtless and of almost criminal neglect of every sound principle of human conduct, from the individual to the government, and the individual was aided, encouraged, and abetted on that path by the government and those responsible for its administration."

"One of the biggest things was a watered state of mind in which we all thought we were richer than we were, and were living beyond our means."

"In my opinion, no great division of human society has ever been lied to, and lied about, as much in the same period of time as has the American farmer."

"This then is my hope for our future—that we may be rich without forgetting to be righteous; that we may be powerful without being offensively proud; that we may be nationally minded without being narrow-minded; and, finally, that we may live in a world of fact without surrendering our faith."

"I would urge consideration of the complete abolishment of so-called floor trading, which, as I am informed, has about it most of the characteristics of plain crap shooting, and few, if any, more redeeming features than that delightful Ethiopian pastime."

"It is bad enough when the intelligent and wealthy speculate and lose, but when scrubwomen, day laborers, small home owners, wives and youths speculate and lose, simply because they can go to a broker's office and get credit for small sums, the practice ceases to be defensible on any ground."

"Out of the stress and difficulty of the situation I believe gradually we shall return to simpler thinking and simpler living. For it seems to me that we want above everything else to abandon the struggle to live up to the Joneses, and to rediscover the purpose of life, which is the joy found in the simple virtues of industry, thrift and sane living. I believe our people, in our country, and God who directs our destinies, will welcome the future with confidence and unshaken faith."

"We have not failed because of ignorance of economic theories, because of our utter German defiance of all economic laws, of our stupidity, and great business policies, and trouble has been the result."

"All through history... the men that have been agriculturists and included in their agricultural and domestic pursuits the breeding and raising of livestock have been the men that have endured the longest and performed the greatest work for mankind."

"Open the door of an agricultural school and you close the door of a poorhouse."

"Relief from owing too much money does not lie in borrowing more."

"Knowledge is one thing, but courage of leadership is another."

"Falsehood and error make headlines, while truth and fact are lost in the maze of half-point type."

"We cannot trade the hungry, the feeble voice of the sick, the empty basket of the unemployed against the maintenance of party preference or individual advantage or personal achievement."

"I believe I am a better farmer a long shot than I am a banker."

"We must either all thrive together or all suffer disaster."

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health. Means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

get Government loans, and being made also by nearly every bank making loans to farmers, will insure greater diversification in Texas this year than has yet been practiced. Farmers, almost without exception, are being required to make agreements to feed their families and stock, as nearly as it is possible, from products of their own farms. Besides this good rule, farmers are seeing for themselves, from observations in their own communities, that those who do this and can and store provisions enough to last a year are the most prosperous.

Some Radish Crop.
A farming organization at Rot town that has been growing radishes successfully on a large scale in South Texas is extending its experiments in several places, as far North as Austin. About 100 cars of radishes are being gathered and shipped from a farm near San Antonio. The enterprise is employing hundreds of laborers. While the wage earnings are not high, the work is proving of vast benefit to those who have been out of employment, and profitable to the growers.

Employment Situation.
Thousands of laborers in Texas, who were out of work a month ago, are now getting jobs on numerous building projects, on truck farms, on plantations, in factories and in other positions, through organized efforts in the cities and towns of the country. The reports made to those in charge of the Nation-wide campaign show that about 200,000 have been provided with work through its efforts throughout the country, and this does not include the thousands employed both on public works and privately, of which no report has been made. Business of all kinds has picked up as a direct result of increased employment.

Doubling Citrus Records.
The Lower Rio Grande Valley counties recently made shipments of 150 cars of oranges and grape fruit in one day, the former high record having been 71 cars. It was estimated that 50 truck loads left the section on the same date.

Big "Resort" Project.
Dallas parties have bought several hundred acres of land on the Big lake front at Hamilton Dam, near Llano and Burrell, and will soon begin clearing the land for summer cottages, amusement places and other developments to make an attractive summer resort. The resort is to be in shape for tourists and summer residents by the time the dam is completed and the lake filled with water.

Kerrville Resorts.
Kerrville is keeping pace with the rest of the Hill country of Texas in improving its facilities for handling the large numbers of summer visitors expected next season. All kinds of recreational facilities are being placed in the Guadalupe river resorts in the hill section. More Texans will spend their vacations in Texas this year than ever before, and more tourists will be attracted from other States.

Finding Indian Relics.
Prof. J. E. Pearce, of the University of Texas, says that while Texas has lost thousands of its best anthropological specimens through its indifference in exploring for, collecting and housing them, the field for discovery of Indian relics has hardly been touched. Recently ranch employees near Ozona discovered a small cave in which they found numerous fine specimens of early Indian jewelry and utensils. Prof. Pearce says that nearly every part of the State contains treasures of this kind and that Texas should unearth and place them in museums before outside explorers get them.

Dollar Day Prizes.
Chambers of Commerce in several Texas towns that are having special trades day or dollar day sales are offering prizes of a cow, a sow and a pen of chickens to induce farmers to come to town and they realize the value of the combination to Texas farmers. It might be well for other clubs or individual firms to try this.

Centennial Committees Organized.
It was appropriate that the Texas Centennial Committee, a self-sustaining board, created by the last legislature should meet on March 2 to complete organization and start work of studying Texas Centennial celebrations of the past to make a report and recommendations to the next legislature for further consideration of that body. It was equally appropriate that on the same date, following the committee meeting, a mass meeting should be held in the Senate Chamber at the State Capitol, at which ringing patriotic songs and rousing patriotic addresses were made—all relating to Texas—and that resolutions were adopted calling upon all Texans to unite in efforts to celebrate, in 1936, in a way to bring attention of all the world to the unprecedented history and achievements of Texas. The Texas Centennial is founded upon the heroic sacrifices of the Texas of a century ago. It behooves Texans to show their appreciation and to attract people to the State from all parts of the world, that they may see for themselves how well Texans have built upon that foundation.

Cotton Reduction Law.

While the Texas cotton acreage reduction law has been declared void by a Texas court of appeals, a decision likely to be confirmed by the Supreme Court, the United States Department of Agriculture has laid down some rules of its own as a basis for the Government's crop production loans. To get such a loan the applicant must agree not to plant in cotton more than 65 per cent of his average plantings for 1930 and 1931. He must also agree to grow enough vegetables for his family use and enough food for his livestock. This applies to tenants as well as land owners. No individual can get more than a $400 loan and no landlord can have more than four tenants getting a total of $1,600. The interest, at 5-12 per cent per annum, will be deducted in advance. Loans will be made only through a county committee and those made now mature November 13th.

Diversification.

The rules laid down for farmers to

Most Novel Valentine of the Year Is Made Entirely of Candy

Here, snapped at Miami Beach, Fla., is the year's most novel Valentine—a miniature Napoleon coach model made entirely of candy! It was constructed by Hans Bendt, famous pastry chef of Detroit, for presentation to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fisher, who acted as host and hostess last summer to the state winners in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild coach-building competition. The coach is a replica of the model which thousands of boys are building in the second annual Guild competition, now under way, and its construction required more than a month. Its attractive custodian in this picture is Miss Evelyn Wink of Detroit, a member of the Florida winter colony.

GAS TAX JEOPARDIZED.

"There were 15 bills in the last legislature attempting to tinker with the gasoline tax, some proposing an increase," says Arthur H. Breed, President Pro Tem, of the California State Senate. "This resort to gas tax to solve needs for additional public expenditure keeps up without abatement."

"The gasoline tax has proved to be so acceptable and so easy a method of raising revenue that it is placed in serious jeopardy by the schemes to exploit it for the benefit of this or that project."

It is to be hoped that his statement will find an echo in every state. The greatest enemies of a successful gasoline tax are those who seek to increase it to excessive levels, or to use the funds for purposes other than highway work.

The big problem of the Democratic leaders seems to be to get all parts of the party to bray in harmony.—The Pathfinder.

HORNETS TO HAVE PLAY.

At a business meeting of the Hondo Hornets, who have just closed a successful basketball season, held at the school house Monday afternoon it was decided to give a play in the near future for the purpose of financing letters for the girls.

The play adopted is a three act mystery drama, filled with comedy and mystery alike, called "The Mystery of the Masked Lady", with a cast of nine girls, and one gentleman who never appears. Imagine such a situation! Miss Perry Chamberlain, coach, will direct.

As soon as the books arrive the Hornets will begin practice and the date of the presentation of the drama will be announced later.

Following the business meeting the team with their coach had pictures taken for the San Antonio newspapers. Watch for their appearance in either or both the San Antonio Light and San Antonio Express.

FARM LOAN PROPOSITION IN MEDINA COUNTY.
Messrs. J. M. Finger, Earl Boon and C. M. Merritt, (county agent), representing the government Farm Loan proposition, of Medina County, were in Devine one day this week, conferring with M. A. Keller, J. W. Roberson, and W. E. Sorrell, the local committee; and made the News a pleasant call. They have left blank applications with Mr. Keller, at Adams Co., and with Mr. W. M. Williamson at the Adams National Bank. We had an article in our last issue, sent out from Washington, and we are copying a lengthy one from the Anvil Herald, more fully explaining the matter. Mr. Finger, who is a banker, says he thinks there will be no limit to the number of farmers that may receive help, where they are eligible, but there are lots of strings about the matter, and farmers must know they are dealing with the Federal government, when making out these applications.—Devine News.

ADVERTISE.
No one person can break the present world depression. President Hoover and the bankers and financiers and statesmen of America and the entire world are throwing their mighty influence and power into the breach. They are undoubtedly gaining results, but even their efforts alone cannot bring back prosperity. Every business man who has something to sell can have a part, and their combined effort can do more than all of the statesmen and bankers combined.
And the business man's job is expressed in one word, ADVERTISE! If your advertising has not been pulling as it should, check it up and apply the following simple rules, as old as the science itself, only in different words, perhaps.
Don't send out messy copy. You wouldn't meet your customers in seedy clothes and patched pants. Make your advertising clean and attractive, the same as you demand of your sales people.
Don't use your advertising to get rid of shop-worn stock. You wouldn't unload dog-tail merchandise on your customers. Feature new merchandise, latest styles, what everybody wants.
Avoid dry detail as you would smallpox. Leave that to Gibbon's History of Rome and the mail-order catalogues.
Don't advertise everything in the store at once. Save that for the January inventory. Feature popular departments.
Sell the use and service of your merchandise. You don't buy a car to look at, but for business and pleasure.
Put human interest in your advertising.
Make your ads convincing. Put in a wallop that will knock out the depression. Avoid trite and stereotyped phrases.
Emphasize prices! (Oh, Mr. Merchant, bear down on this!) Prices talk today as never before. Make your customers see that his dollar will buy more now than at any time since the war.
Dress up your store. Give it a Sunday-go-to-meeting appearance every day in the week, especially your show windows.
"Sell" your salespeople. If they are not enthusiastic to back up your advertising, your money is wasted. They must close the deal.
All these things, brother, do in the name of good business. Make the above your "Ten Commandments" of business and watch old Man Depression pack his duds and leave your store.—Texas Commercial News.

By HAROLD L. COOK

JANUARY first was hanging heavily on the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Willer. They felt that they should do something to distinguish it from other holidays or from Sunday, but four o'clock in the afternoon arrived without anything happening to impress upon them that they had really entered upon a new year.

The New England town where they lived lay peacefully under its blanket of white, and probably most of its forty thousand inhabitants were as peacefully dozing in their chairs, satisfied with their creature comforts, and thankful that they were not as other people.

Mr. Willer was roused from his doze by the clang of the door bell. "Are the Misses Baker in?" he queried a throaty voice, as he opened the door and saw an elderly couple standing on his porch.

"The Misses Baker!" he exclaimed. "You mean Miss Bell and Miss Louise?"

"Of course," replied the voice. "Why, the Bakers don't live here," Mr. Willer explained. "They live on Caroline street. They haven't lived here in over twenty years."

"Thank you," was the only response. "My wife and I just thought we'd pay our New Year's call on them."

"Can you imagine that?" shouted Mr. Willer to his wife, when he had closed the door. "The Lewises calling on the Baker girls here, and we've been in this house ourselves for over twenty years! Mr. Lewis didn't even seem surprised when it was I who opened the door."

"Well, of all things!" laughed Mrs. Willer coming down the stairs. "But do you know, John, that gives me an idea. Suppose we go around the corner and call on Mrs. Crump? We haven't been there in a long time, and it might cheer her up."

"All right," Mr. Willer replied. "Mrs. Crump is getting on, and I don't suppose we can wish her many more Happy New Years. She must be over ninety now."

"Yes, ninety-three," said Mrs. Willer, drawing on her rubbers. "And we haven't dropped in to see her in some time."

"How long is it, anyway?" asked Mr. Willer.

"I don't know," replied his wife, "but we certainly haven't been there since we are living in this house."

So, after twenty years, Mrs. Crump received a New Year's call from her friendly neighbors, the Willers.

When Heart Rules Head At Christmas the heart dethrones the head. It compels us to do high things; it permits us to do foolish things. It sanctions our being childlike. It urges us, for one brief week, to be gloriously, recklessly, unselfish.

MODERN INVENTIONS REDUCE NIGHT ACCIDENTS

Changing a tire on the highway is a hazardous job for the motorist and a menace to passing cars. The Boy Scout light solves the problem for, set up on end, it throws a steady beam of light on the parked car and the toiling autoist and at the same time warns approaching drivers.

When baby cries at night mother must answer, but toys and chairs and carts are strewn about the floor, and she doesn't want to flood the room with the glare of the electric lights nor risk barked shins. The little electric candle which automatically lights when picked up and goes out when set down, makes entry into the nursery quiet and safe.

The house cat usually selects the most precarious spot on the cellar stairs to curl up for a nap. The wary woman never undertakes to descend those steps without a light and where wired electric outlets are not available, the handy wall light which operates on batteries provides real safety at this danger spot.

Mud puddles, fallen trees and other obstacles are not among the toys of the commuter's life but he is bound to run into them sometimes when he is late getting home from the office. One of the small pocket lights, which fits neatly even into a vest pocket, is all he needs to make walking safe and to avoid any and all sidewalk pitfalls.

Be ready to ride the thrill trail for plenty of excitement in "Take a Chance Night" either Saturday or Sunday. The name of the picture is withheld for your surprise, but we assure you that here is one of those good ones that will be enjoyed by all lovers of adventure and romance. Come on—take a chance!

To prove to a pretty girl that Havenhurst is not such a dead town, a reporter steals her necklace, intending to return it with a colorful cock-and-bull story about wrestling it single-handed from a desperado. He told the story, all right—but he didn't deliver the necklace until after a series of mysterious events that kept him and his pal, the Police Lieutenant, in and out of hot water for sometime! The key to the mystery of who stole the twice-stolen necklace and who committed two murders is disclosed in the Columbia picture, "A Dangerous Affair," featuring Jack Holt and Ralph Graves and Sally Blane at the Colonial Theatre Thursday and Friday.

THEN THEY PAID UP PROMPTLY!

Once upon a time there was an editor who never dunned his subscribers and yet they always paid up. Whenever the name of one of the delinquents appeared in the local news he printed the name upside down. Everyone in town knew what the inverted name meant and those who were behind hurried to send in their checks lest they too be treated in a like manner.—Washington Newspaper.

TEAMWORK NEEDED.

An Iowa newspaper declares that the smaller towns of the country are on trial for their lives, what with automobiles, buses, concrete roads and radios. Assuming that the statement is true, the test can be won by co-operation. Instead of considering every competitor in business as an enemy it is the part of good business to make a friend of him. Co-operation for the purpose of attracting custom because of the various lines offered is the winning plan. People like to trade where the stores are good and the assortments large. One store in a small town may not attract much trade. If the clothing stores bring a customer to town by reason of being the kind of a store he likes to trade in every other store in town has a prospect of making the customer his also. It is as plain as the nose on one's face. Country stores can hold the trade and win the trial of their lives by working with each other.—Northwood (Iowa) Anchor.

THE BEES THAT PROVED A BLESSING.

By Juliette Frazier.

Mr. Sanders had always liked bees and ever since he had brought home a bride to share the little cottage which stood on the four acres which he had recently bought, Jim Sanders had always insisted on having at least two stands of bees setting somewhere in the front yard. Bees were a sort of a hobby to him. He liked to read books on the habits and care of bees and he subscribed to a couple of beekeeper's magazines.

But Mrs. Sanders felt somewhat different about the matter. She hated to have bees buzzing around her head while she was out in her garden. And she simply could not understand how anyone could find any pleasure in spending any time fussing around with "those pesky insects" as she called them.

However, because the two little Sanders were very fond of honey on their breakfast cereals and hot cakes, and because ever since Betty's last illness the doctor had advised honey in her diet, instead of sugar, Mrs. Sanders did not say much when her husband bought several more stands of bees to add to the others which already stood in and about the yard of the Sanders home. Nevertheless, she was very much disgusted to think that Jim would spend his hard earned money for more of those "pesky insects".

But at that time Mrs. Sanders had no idea that before long those "pesky insects" would prove a great blessing to her and to her two small children. She could not foresee that in less than a week's time from the day those new stands of bees were set in her yard her husband would meet with an accident which would result in his death. She never dreamed that she would soon be left a widow with no income other than the returns for the fruit from a small orchard which covered less than an acre of ground.

The few dollars insurance money which Mrs. Sanders received as remuneration for the loss of her husband, was just enough to finish paying off the mortgage on their home and to meet the funeral expenses.

Then it was up to the widow to find some way to provide a living for herself and her children. Since she had no special training, not even a high-school education, Mrs. Sanders realized that her problem would be hard to solve, especially because she could not afford to hire someone to care for the children while she went out to work.

She could sell out, move to the city and put her children in some children's home while she would try to find work in some store or shop. But that would never do. Children were entitled to a real home and their mother's care and attention.

It was while brooding over these facts that she caught sight of a honey bee which had flown in through the open window and was now resting upon the arm of her chair. She did not shoo the bee away with an irritable gesture of her hand, as had been her way of doing. No, this time she continued to sit quietly and wondered if perhaps this bee might have a message for her—perhaps the little bee held the solution to her problem.

Suddenly she was seized by some inspiration which caused her to jump up from her chair, and go into the kitchen where she occupied herself washing empty fruit jars the remainder of that afternoon.

The following morning, which happened to be Tuesday, she drove to town. In the back seat of the car sat the two little Sanders with their legs propped up on two boxes which were set on the floor in front of them. The boxes contained pint jars filled with strained honey.

Later that day, when Mrs. Sanders returned home, she counted the money which she had received for the honey. It amounted to $3.25. Not very much, but a good beginning, she thought, especially considering that this had been her first experience in trying to sell anything. On Friday she would make another trip to town; in the meanwhile she would make some honey cakes which she would take along and try to sell.

On Friday morning Mrs. Sanders drove off to town again with more honey and 12 dozen honey cakes which she offered at 25c per dozen.

A few hours later the same day when she faced her car homeward the future began to hold a brighter aspect for her. She had sold all but two pints of the three dozen pints of honey, and all of the honey cakes which she had taken along.

After this Mrs. Sanders made two trips to town regularly every week, and continued to meet with increasing success in selling her products.

Finally she began to bake honey bread which she offered to her customers at 20c per loaf. The first time she took some of the bread to town, two of the loaves were cut into slices so that she could give a sample slice to everyone who seemed interested in this new product. She also had some cards printed which contained a price list of her products, her address and her telephone number and she left one of these at each place where she called.

At the end of the first month Mrs. Sanders was obliged to hire a high-school boy to deliver her products while she stayed at home and did the baking.

The delivery boy was paid 10 per cent on the dollar of each sale. Mrs. Sanders furnished the car, the gas and the oil, so that although at first the boy's remuneration did not amount to so very much, still it was a great help to meet his high-school expenses. This encouraged him to do his best in trying to increase his sales.

By the end of the second month the demand for Mrs. Sanders' honey products had increased to the extent that she found it necessary to hire help in her kitchen to help do the baking. There was an average output of seventy-five loaves of honey bread and about fifty dozen honey cakes per week.

Knowing that nothing in the world is so much desired as good health, Mrs. Sanders knew that anything which promotes health would be sure to find a sale, if the products were attractively presented.

The Sanders' Honey and Honey products were advertised regularly in the local weekly newspaper, also in several advertising media put out by some of the local theatres and business houses.

Before a year had rolled by Mrs. Sanders' delivery boy was provided with a white uniform and was driving a regular delivery car which was painted white and on each side of it was painted a golden bee hive above which was inscribed in large yellow and black letters "Sanders' Honey and Honey Products". Below the bee hive were these words: Phone No. 127. Deliveries made Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays.

In and about the yard of the Sanders' home now stood a large and carefully tested apiary where formerly were only a few stands of bees. And Mrs. Sanders no longer considered bees "pesky insects", but called them her "golden honey bees", which had proved such a great blessing to her and her children.

USING CONCRETE ON THE FARM.

By V. M. Couch.

Concrete work among farmers in general has brought about one of the greatest improvements on the farm of the present day. With good cement, sand and gravel, the farmer can build almost anything he wishes. There has been great progress made in the past few years in concrete work, probably more than in the previous half century, until now nearly every country home is surrounded with good artificial stone walks, and the winter and spring muddy path from the kitchen to the barn, will be a thing of the past.

When farmers first commenced to build cement walks and do other concrete work, trying to improve their homes and make them appear more city like, practically all of the labor was hired, none but those of means felt that they could afford to have it done, but it was not very long before farmers learned that ordinary concrete work was not so difficult after all and soon took a hand at it themselves. Most farmers soon learned that they could lay just as good concrete walks, build steps, butments, foundations for buildings and many other concrete jobs, as anybody. One thing that has hindered some farmers in this work has been in making proper forms for some kinds of cement work, but this difficulty has now been pretty much overcome, so that the average farmer is able to do most any ordinary concrete job that comes along on the farm. He is able to build with this plastic material much cheaper than anyone else, for the simple reason that he has the time and means for his own hauling and labor without interfering with regular farming operations.

Where sand and gravel are easily available, no better or cheaper material can be had for construction work on the farm, and there is hardly any limit to the different jobs that can be done.

In dairying, the highest state of sanitation is possible with floors and walls of the stable built of concrete. Surfaces made of concrete are easily cleaned, disinfected and white-washed, and kept free from odors that wood would absorb. Winds are shut out and the stables are cool in summer. Concrete work may be the most expensive to build, but it is far the cheapest in the end, for when properly constructed requires no further outlay.

Traylor Finds Too Much Silence Responsible for Business Slump

Chicago Banker Traces Crash to Failure of Leaders to Give Warnings

Danger Signals Disregarded

Speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington, Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, said in part:

Business management, however, is not alone responsible for the course it has followed. Unfortunately, it has had the cooperation of finance and government and will likewise have to have their cooperation in adjusting its affairs to a saner course. What, in fact, did the leaders of finance do to encourage the expansion which took place in the last decade?

Melvin Traylor.

What, if anything, did they do to prevent such expansion with the consequences which they certainly did know or should have known would follow?

I believe their record in that connection is not an enviable one. As early as 1927, it was clearly obvious to anyone having experience with the granting of credit that if the situation was allowed to continue, and if expansion and speculation were carried on unchecked, there could be but one end—disaster. Yet the record of American financial leadership and of responsible government officials was regrettably one of too much silence.

Sounded Few Warnings

Few warnings were issued, and few attempts were made to attract public attention to the danger that threatened. Credit for the expansion of productive facilities to meet temporary demands was granted to business without adequate consideration of the consequences. Credit without stint was furnished to consumers to buy consumable goods, thereby further increasing false purchasing power and multiplying debt. No one called a halt.

Every kind and character of combination and consolidation was made, regardless of its economic advisability or the possibility of economies in management or increased profits therefrom. Little or no consideration was given to the nature of the business involved; in one instance, for example, soaps and candies were united. Such combinations and mergers were promoted and securities were sold on the theory that temporary earnings derived from a false demand would not only continue, but would forever increase.

Furthermore, these securities were not sold to those in a position to buy, or who could buy for investment purposes, but rather to those less able to buy—to men and women fascinated by high-powered salesmanship and an in-born desire to gamble for big profits. Was such financial leadership calculated to inspire confidence or to assure social welfare? I am afraid not.

But financial leadership did not stop there. It actively promoted the purchase of equity stocks and split its own unit of stock par in order, as it said, to bring its market value within the reach of the small investor. May I add, parenthetically, that such action would have been unnecessary for their purpose had they waited only a few months.

Financial leaders organized and promoted so-called investment trusts to give the small investor a chance to profit from wise financial leadership, made foreign loans of speculative value, and, altogether, followed the procession obviously intent upon getting theirs while the getting was good.

Must Chart New Course

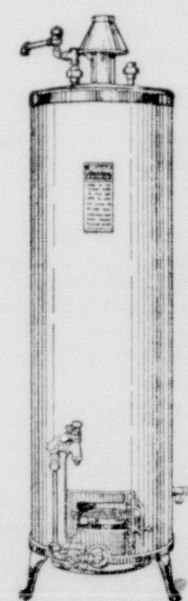

Are we to have a repetition of this kind of financial leadership? If it be true—as I believe it is—that credit is the life-blood of the nation, and that there can be no economic stability or social progress without a sound financial structure; and if it be true—as I also believe—that no financial system is sounder or more useful than its management, then financial leadership in this country must take stock of itself turn over a new leaf, and chart a new course of conduct for its future guidance.

If it be objected that not all financial leaders are guilty of such misconduct—and certainly there are some who are not—the indictment, nevertheless, stands. As far as the record discloses, not one had the courage to fight in the open against the tendencies he knew were wrong and to demand a right-about-face. Knowledge is one thing, but courage of leadership is another.
